Attached for your information is my response to your questions. The reason for the delay was based upon the volume of research you levied upon me, noting that this original manuscript was approved as written by a Mr. David M. Hardy by letter to me dated 06/11/2009. - Not True! - Original Email!

Additionally, there are many individual components in some of the sections you wanted reviewed, and I cannot respond completely accurately, as I cannot ascertain what exactly it is that upsets your colleagues.

In any event, the entire Lipka case was declassified for trial according to [REDACTED]

I sincerely hope this answers your questions and you will get this manuscript approved, again.

Thank you for your consideration.

John,

Good News, we have some movement on your book, but now I need your help. For the passages I mention below, can you provide me public source information to see if this information is publicly known? This will help us tremendously as our external reviews have come back with several areas they want us to check on. Thanks for any help you can provide.

Wish I could believe you, but this is a bit ridiculous. Nearly nine months for a manuscript that has already been approved once before. Thanks anyway for the "more of the same heads up."

Hello

We spoke earlier this year about my re-submitting my manuscript for a second approval by your unit. Hopefully, you will recall that sent me an approval letter for the first manuscript dated June 11, 2009. Since that time, my editor has re-worked the manuscript, making it a better read. Little has been added, and for the most parts, a lot has been deleted.

Thanks for taking the time to read over the story. Kindly acknowledge receipt of this e-mail and the enclosure so I know its in your hands. Looking forward to hearing from you!

Regards,

John Whiteside

safety threats); the FBI Whistleblower Protection Act (5 U.S.C. 2303, 28 C.F.R. Part 27) (governing disclosures of illegality, mismanagement, waste, fraud, abuse or public health or safety threats); the Intelligence Identities Protection Act of 1982 (50 U.S.C. 421 et seq.) (governing disclosures that could expose confidential government agents); and the statutes which protect against disclosure that may compromise the national security, including Sections 641, 793, 794, 798, and 952 of Title 18, United States Code, and Section 4(b) of the Subversive Activities Act of 1950 (50 U.S.C. 783(b)). The definitions, requirements, obligations, rights, sanctions, and liabilities created by the foregoing authorities are incorporated into this policy and are controlling.

- 2.3.6. Prepublication review is not required for proposed disclosures encompassed by the foregoing authorities. However, any information disclosed pursuant to these authorities continues to be subject to the prepublication policy for any other disclosure.

Example: An FBI employee may make a disclosure of classified FBI information to appropriately cleared personnel of the DOJ OIG pursuant to the FBI Whistleblower Protection Act without prepublication review. The employee may not, however, make an identical disclosure to a reporter without subjecting the disclosure to prepublication review because disclosures to reporters are not protected by those authorities, even if an identical protected disclosure has been made.

2.4. Prohibited Disclosures

Employees shall not disclose the following types of information to unauthorized recipients, except in the performance of official duties or as authorized by RMD:

- 2.4.1. Information protected from disclosure by the Privacy Act of 1974, as amended
- 2.4.2. Information that is classified or the disclosure of which could harm national security
- 2.4.3. Information that reveals sensitive law enforcement, intelligence, counterintelligence, or counterterrorism techniques, sources, or methods of the FBI or any other governmental entity
- 2.4.4. Information that would reveal grand jury material protected from disclosure by Rule 6(e) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure
- 2.4.5. Information that would tend to reveal the identity of a confidential source or the identity of a government agency or authority or private institution which furnished information on a confidential basis
- 2.4.6. Information that relates to any sensitive operational details or the substantive merits of any ongoing or open investigation or case

Prepublication Review Manual

- 2.4.7. Proprietary information and trade secrets
- 2.4.8. Information pertaining to wiretaps or intercepts, electronic communications (including storage mechanisms), or foreign intelligence protected or regulated by Title III (Title 18, United States Code, Sections 2510-2520) or F.I.S.A. (Title 50, United States Code, Sections 1801-1862)
- 2.4.9. Information pertaining to currency transaction reports regulated or protected by Title 31, United States Code, Section 5313- 5319
- 2.4.10. Tax return information regulated or protected by Title 26, United States Code, Section 6103
- 2.4.11. Information pertaining to contractor bids or proposals or source-selection information before the award of the procurement contract to which the information relates
- 2.4.12. Any other information the disclosure of which is prohibited by law, Executive Order, or regulation
- 2.4.13. Any other information that the FBI would have discretion to withhold from disclosure pursuant to civil discovery obligations, the Freedom of Information Act, Privacy Act, or any other statute, law, or regulation

2.5. Employee Accountability for Permitted Disclosures

- 2.5.1. Disclosures will not be prohibited pursuant to this policy solely because they are critical or disparaging of the FBI, the government, or any individual. Any disclosure by a current employee, however, that adversely affects the ability of the employee to effectively and efficiently fulfill his/her official responsibilities or interferes with the FBI's operations may subject the employee to administrative or disciplinary action for the consequences of the disclosure. Examples of disclosures that are not prohibited under this policy but still may subject the employee to disciplinary action are the disclosure of private grievances and disclosures that significantly impair discipline or harmony among coworkers. These types of disclosures could have detrimental impacts on close working relationships where personal loyalty or confidence is necessary, impede the performance of the employee's duties, or interfere with the regular operations of the FBI. An employee will not be prohibited from making such disclosures but may be held accountable for the consequences of the disclosures.

Example: An ASAC publishes a scathing attack on the management style of his SAC and thereby loses the trust and confidence of the SAC, disrupts unit cohesion, and prejudices the effectiveness of the office. The ASAC may be disciplined for those

STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. The National Security Agency (NSA) is an agency of the United States Department of Defense headquartered at Fort Meade, Maryland.

2. The mission of NSA, at the time of this offense, included the interception of foreign electromagnetic, radio, radar and other transmissions, and the production of intelligence from those signals for use by the United States military and other United States intelligence agencies.

3. From at least September 1965 through August 1967, the Priority Materials Branch of NSA's Current Intelligence Division was responsible for receiving, reviewing and analyzing classified intelligence information; determining which office within NSA required the material; and assigning the material for distribution and routing.

4. From at least September 1965 through August 1967, the Priority Materials Branch received classified intelligence information in two ways. First, typewritten classified reports from the Central Intelligence Agency, the Department of State, and other components of the Department of Defense, including the Army, Navy, Air Force and the Defense Intelligence Agency, were delivered by courier. Second, electrically generated, classified reports, cables, telegrams, and airgrams — either being sent from NSA headquarters to other NSA facilities, or being received at NSA headquarters from other NSA facilities — were printed on teleprinters located within the Priority Materials Branch.

5. Defendant Robert Stephan Lipka enlisted in the United States Army on or about August 19, 1963.

6. From on or about October 22, 1963, to on or about January 22, 1964, defendant Lipka received official United States Army training at Fort Holabird, Maryland, to be an intelligence analyst.

7. On or about January 22, 1964, defendant Lipka was issued a "Top Secret" United States government security clearance and received official authorization to have access to cryptographic United States government information.

8. From on or about January 22, 1964, to on or about August 19, 1967, defendant Lipka was assigned to the National Security Agency.

9. From in or around September 1965 to in or around August 1967, defendant Lipka was assigned to the Priority Materials Branch of NSA's Current Intelligence Division.

10. From in or around September 1965 to in or around August 1967, defendant Lipka's responsibilities at NSA included removing and distributing classified reports generated by the teleprinters; and periodically depositing classified reports no longer needed in a destruction chute.

11. The classified reports to which Lipka had access included information relating to the national defense, including but not limited to information directly concerning communications intelligence.

12. In or around August 1967, defendant Lipka left active duty Army service, ceased working at NSA, and moved to 403 Lancaster Avenue, Apartment #2, Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

13. From in or around September 1965 to in or around August 1967, defendant Lipka periodically removed classified documents from his workplace at the National Security Agency, Department of Defense (NSA) without authorization.

14. From in or around September 1965 to in or around August 1967, defendant Lipka delivered classified materials — including information relating to the national defense — to a representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (Soviet Union) by secreting the classified materials in various secure locations for later recovery by the representative.

15. From in or around September 1965 to in or around August 1967, defendant Lipka received periodic payments from the Soviet Union in the form of United States currency, totalling approximately $27,000, which he retrieved from various secure locations where a representative of the Soviet Union had earlier secreted the payment.

16. From at least January 1967 through August 1967, after receiving his periodic payments of United States currency from representatives of the Soviet Union, defendant Lipka returned to his apartment in Baltimore, Maryland, and counted his payments.

17. Defendant Lipka, after ending his assignment at NSA in August 1967, retained classified documents that he had taken from NSA.

18. From in or around September 1965 to in or around 1974 and thereafter, the Committee for State Security (Komitet gosudarstvennoi bezopasnosti, or KGB), the intelligence service of the Soviet Union, used officers to locate, contact, meet with, receive classified documents from, and deliver payments to defendant Lipka.

19. In or around the summer of 1966, in Baltimore, Maryland, defendant Lipka displayed to another three cameras that he said he had obtained for use in his unlawful espionage activities.

20. In or around January 1967, in Maryland, defendant Lipka secreted a package of classified materials in the tank of a commode located within the restroom of a restaurant.

21. Thereafter, in or around January 1967, in Maryland, defendant Lipka drove to a wooded area and searched for a package he expected to have been secreted there for him by a representative of the Soviet Union.

22. On or about May 21, 1967, defendant Lipka drove from Baltimore, Maryland, to a wooded area and secreted a package for later recovery by a representative of the Soviet Union, and retrieved a package containing United States currency earlier secreted there by a representative of the Soviet Union.

23. In or around August 1967, defendant Lipka brought classified documents into the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

24. In or around November 1968, a representative of the Soviet Union contacted defendant Lipka by causing a post card to be delivered to his residence in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

25. In or around December 1968, defendant Lipka travelled from his residence in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, to Waldorf, Maryland, to meet with a representative of the Soviet Union.

26. In or around 1970, defendant Lipka attempted to make contact with representatives of the Soviet Union using procedures previously established for that purpose.

27. In or around 1974, pursuant to instructions he received by mail, defendant Lipka travelled to a park in the Bronx, New York, and met with a representative of the Soviet Union.

28. Defendant Lipka's unauthorized deliveries of classified documents to the KGB were committed intentionally by Lipka, with knowledge that his conduct was unlawful. In addition, defendant Lipka had reason to believe that the information he was transmitting to the KGB would provide an advantage to the Soviet Union and would injure the United States.

29. The term "national defense" as used in this statement of facts refers to the term "national defense" as it appears in 18 U.S.C. § 794, and in cases interpreting that statute.

30. Lipka committed the above acts knowingly and intentionally, not by accident or mistake.

Had a trial been held in this matter, the government would have lawfully proven all of the above beyond a reasonable doubt.

Pages including cover sheet (19)

Enclosed for your info and review is the following:

The Sword and the Shield – The Mitrokhin Archive and the Secret History of the KGB – pages 1, 8-9, 18-19, 193-196, 205-206, 261, & 344. Since both this book and the Mitrokhin Archive are identical, only these pages are being forwarded to show identical info between the two despite page differences. Photo page of Lipka is identical in both books.

Also enclosed are 4 pages of Philadelphia Inquirer article dated 09/25/1997.
I made a typo on the date in my previous response as edition dated 09/27/1997. Correct date is 09/25/1997.

That will complete the references. I will forward the original manuscript to you by e-mail.
